Value-add distribution of enterprise
class security and network solutions and services

ABOUT US

Kite is a UK-focused, value-added distributor that specialises in bringing innovative and disruptive technologies to the UK channel. Our management have over 50 years of accumulated channel experience, including launching and building markets for some of the most readily recognisable security and networking brands around today.

Our aim at Kite is to provide each of our vendor and reseller partners with a market-leading distribution engine for building incremental revenue. We are also ardent believers in maintaining quality at all times. We endeavour to set a very high level of partner satisfaction from the point the inquiry is picked up, our understanding of the vendors proposition, quote accuracy and turnaround all the way through to delivery and post-sale professional services.

We firmly believe that the generation of incremental revenue is a goal more easily accomplished with distribution and the vendor both working in tandem with the partner. For that reason we leverage our know-how and complementary services to assist in the creation & closure of pipeline opportunity.
